Brian Eagan leads the firm's Accounting Solutions group and has been responsible for leading this department since 2008. Under his leadership, the department has grown significantly thanks in large part to the group's ability to identify, develop, and retain top level talent. Currently, in addition to leading this group, Brian specializes in providing high level interim CFO and Controller work for small to medium size businesses, including non-profit and local government agencies. In this role, Brian makes himself highly accessible to clients by phone and e-mail, in addition to appreciating the importance of performing some of these services onsite at clients' offices. As part of new client integration, Brian will evaluate the services and client needs, and together with management develop a streamlined communication process and a regular site visit plan.

Brian received his B.S. in accounting from DePaul University in 2001. Upon graduation, he began his career as an accounting assistant with an insurance firm in Chicago. Within three years, Brian had been promoted to controller. In 2004, Brian began to seek new challenges, which led to him join the Selden Fox team in the audit department. After four years in the audit department, Brian transitioned into the firm's Accounting Solutions group. His background in auditing and experience as a controller provides him with an excellent skill set to assist clients from an accounting and business perspective.

Brian is licensed CPA and a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Illinois CPA Society. He is a member of the board of directors of the West Suburban Chamber of Commerce and Industry.
